David Blanton

David Blanton has been an integral part of Realtree's video efforts since he started in 1991 as video production manager. He has served as executive producer of "Realtree Outdoors" since the show premiered on TNN in 1993. The popular show moved to ESPN2 in July 2004 after more than a decade on TNN, and has been ranked the No. 1 show on ESPN2 for three consecutive years.

Blanton is also executive producer of Realtree's popular "Monster Bucks" video series. Blanton has earned a solid reputation throughout the hunting industry as someone who knows the ins and outs of videoing and harvesting trophy bucks, turkeys and other wildlife. Whether its chasing whitetails in Illinois or elk in Colorado, his countless hours in front of and behind the camera have taught Blanton what it takes to be a successful hunter.

Blanton is an accomplished hunter who gets a thrill out of hunting with a bow, rifle or muzzleloader. If you've ever wanted to find out where to go for exciting hunts — or if you just want a tip or two that will make you a better hunter — Blanton is always glad to share his experiences with anyone who has a passion for hunting.

"I have the greatest job in the world," says Blanton. "God has blessed me with a platform that I can share my testimony to other men and women who have a passion for the outdoors. And for that, I am grateful."

Blanton and his wife, Ginger, reside in LaGrange, Ga., with their three sons, Harman, Alex and Lucas.
